This exhibit is a tribute to Buddy's brother, Phil Guy and all of the bluesmen who have died from the disease including, Big Daddy Kinsey, Raful Neal, Barrelhouse Chuck, David Maxwell. The collection of photos are unique performance shots of Buddy Guy and his band, his family and his friends over one year. The exhibit captures Buddy on stage at his club and at his annual concert at Ravinia Festival in Highland Park, Illinois. Photographer, Allen Winkler and publicity director for PCa Blue, photojournalist & Blues DJ, Lynn Orman Weiss had a front row seat capturing every night's performance. Buddy sets up shop for 16 concerts in January, he graces the stage with 16 opening acts, masters and rising stars. Opening night featured two legends on stage together for one cause, PCa Blue raising awareness about the prostate cancer disease.
